Construction underway on new West Swan (Dayton) Primary School (planning name)

Rita Saffioti, Member for West Swan, welcomes construction on the new primary school in Dayton.

West Swan (Dayton) Primary School (planning name) had its design revealed late last year, shortly after construction had commenced on the corner of Arthur Street and Cranleigh Street, Dayton.

The state-of-the-art primary school will provide capacity for 540 students and include a Kindergarten/Pre-primary block, four general learning blocks including art/science and inclusive education rooms, covered assembly area with music and canteen, hard courts, oval, administration block, library, staff room and staff and parent parking.

Ms Saffioti met with foundation principal Mr Raymond Boyd to discuss construction progression and plans for the school once it opens.

Mr Boyd together with a steering committee will determine the school's name, logo, motto and colours.

The local community will have the opportunity to participate in a community consultation process to choose the school's name.

Construction of Dayton's newest school is being delivered by McCorkell Constructions and will be completed for the 2023 school year.
